Emetrol® Sponsors WebMD Tips on Treating Nausea for Moms During 2009-2010 Flu Season

Sarasota, FL, November 16 -- WellSpring Pharmaceutical Corporation is sponsoring a multi-part, WebMD section for mothers with advice about treating nausea and vomiting during the flu season. "Nausea & Vomiting: A Mom's Guide for the Family" (<http://www.webmd.com/parenting/nausea-vomiting-9/default.htm>), was developed by the WebMD editorial staff and is being sponsored by Emetrol®, WellSpring's over-the-counter remedy that relieves nausea due to upset stomach from intestinal flu, stomach flu and food or drink overindulgences.

The WebMD guide features tips for mothers about the causes of nausea and how to manage it, with treatment advice including maintaining hydration, reintroducing food after a bout of flu and when to call a doctor. It covers signs to watch for, including rapid heartbeat or decreased urination, which can indicate dehydration. A "Nine Tips for Nausea" slide show offers easily accessible advice for women in a hurry about what works and doesn't work.

Although infection is cited as the most common cause of nausea and vomiting, children can also experience stomach upset due to food allergies, anxiety or stress at school or over the big game, or eating too much. While pain relievers can aggravate the problem, the guide details home remedies that can offer relief, including peppermint, ginger and over-the-counter medications. The WebMD guide contains information about preventative measures such as avoiding allergy triggers and practicing stress reduction techniques.

Recommended by pharmacists and doctors, Emetrol® has been providing safe and effective relief for nausea due to upset stomach for children and adults for more than 60 years.
